

I developed for Chrome, so all differences are in comparison to Chrome's display. In Firefox, I noticed that h1's underline while active appears much thinner and remains continuous. In Safari, I noticed that the form's radio buttons appear slightly different than the other two, and that h1's hover effect is slightly cut off on the last letter (leaving a small part of the last "e" white). Fonts and colors appear otherwise consistent throughout each browser.